

ALAN LUNT CONSUMER ADVOCATE AWARD

Alan Lunt was a staunch advocate of services for not only himself, but others who were in various phases of their recovery. NJPRA celebrates Alan's years of dedication to the field of Psychiatric Rehabilitation and working in advocacy with this annual award.

The Alan Lunt Consumer Advocate Award is given to a person in recovery. This person must show outstanding current or past advocacy efforts in the field of psychiatric rehabilitation for people in recovery, families and/or services for people in recovery. All recipients should be either individual/advocate members or part of an organizational member of NJPRA.

To nominate someone for this award, please complete the following information BY OCTOBER 10, 2021 at nominating@njpra.org.

Person making the nomination: _____ Date: _____

Affiliation/Organization: _____

Contact phone and email:

_____ Name of nominee:

Reason for Nomination: Please be specific in describing the following:

- What has the person accomplished in the area of advocacy for people in recovery from mental illness and addiction?

- Discuss the Psychiatric Rehabilitation values at which the person excels:

